

HOW TO LOVE DAVID

Provide this page to your loved ones so they can learn how to quickly fill up your emotional Love Tank. Describe what you learned about yourself and invite them to take the assessment so you can do the same for them.

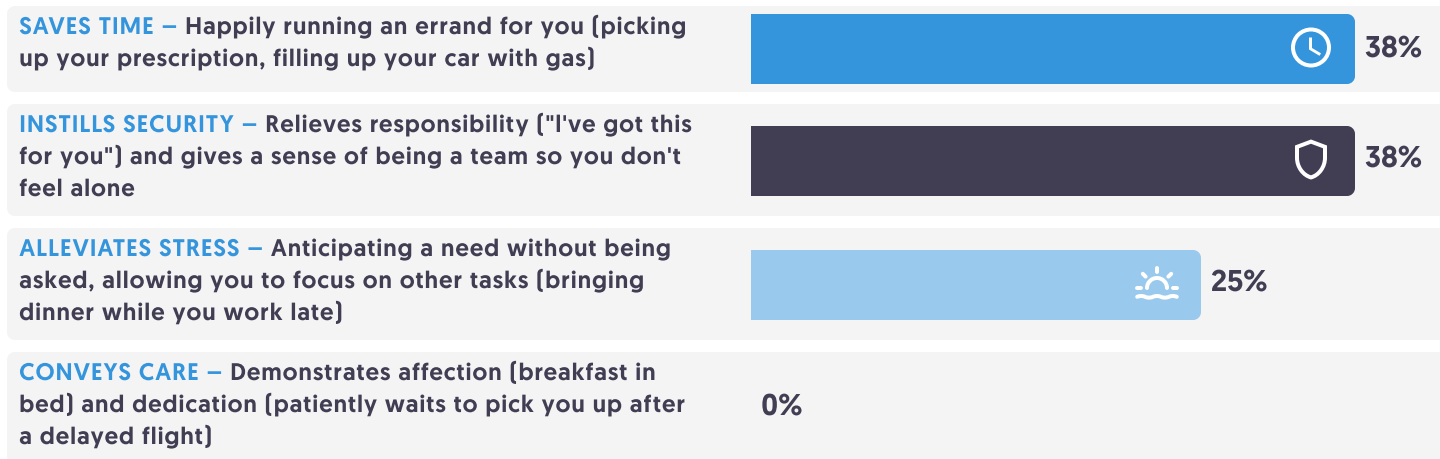

Pay special attention to David's primary Love Language(s). This is the most effective way for you to help David feel loved and valued.

David's secondary Love Languages™ are also important (and you may want to read those pages of David's report) but you'll never go wrong when you emphasize a primary Love Language®.

Deeper Insights: Acts of Service™

When you know the types of good deeds that meet David's needs, you are more likely to fill up David's love tank.

While David may value each of the four benefits of this Love Language®, David is especially attuned to Acts of Service™ that save time. In David's world, Acts of Service™ that save time are golden treasures. David appreciates when someone takes the initiative to help with chores, run errands, or handle tasks that would otherwise consume David's day. These acts free David from the hustle and bustle, giving David precious moments to relax, pursue passions, or simply unwind. David sees loving deeds that save David time as the most valuable of all. When others recognize this and lend a helping hand, it typically resonates deeply for David. In these Acts of Service™, David feels loved, respected, and incredibly grateful for the time David gains to focus on what truly matters in life.
