THE DIMENSIONS

71%

Mind

The mind is the seat of intellectual activity. It is what enables us to deliberate, to process, to reflect, to ponder, and to remember. The mind enables us to take a leader's instincts and inspiration and put them into action. Leading with the mind allows you to make wise decisions about stewarding all the resources that God has entrusted to you.

Heart

The heart of a leader is the truest part of who he or she is. Your heart is the center of your emotions, desires, and wishes. Your heart is what most connects you with other. It's the relational dimension of leadership. It's developing the art of emotional intelligence. When you lead from the heart, you see others as living, breathing humans with stories, emotions, families, strengths and weaknesses, and tragedies and joys.

Soul

The soul is the part of us that longs to know God. It's the epicenter of morality, integrity, humility, and servanthood. It is the spiritual component of our leadership, and gives you the sensitivity to engage in the conversations that help lead people closer to God. It is the distinction that sets you apart as a faith-based leader.
